

Expert Witnesses Appearing
In the Thompson v. HUD Remedy Trial
March 2006

Plaintiffs Experts

Jill Khadduri, Ph.D. served at HUD for 26 years, the last 17 of which were as Director of the Division of Policy Development. During her past five years at Abt Associates, she has done research projects on public housing, housing vouchers, and affordable housing program.

Margery Austin Turner served as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Research at HUD (1993-96) and currently directs the Center on Metropolitan Housing and Communities at the Urban Institute. She authored the most recent national research (funded by HUD) measuring the incidence and forms of discrimination in urban housing markets.

Xavier de Souza Briggs is Associate Professor Sociology and Urban Planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a faculty affiliate of the Urban Institute. He was HUD's Deputy Assistant Secretary for Research (1996-98) and then became Acting Assistant Secretary for Policy Development and Research. He was formerly on faculty at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government. His latest book is The Geography of Opportunity: Race and Housing Choice in Metropolitan America (Brookings Institution Press, 2005)

Anirban Basu is a Senior Lecturer at Towson University, where he teaches micro-, macro- and international economics. He is also Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Sage Policy Group. He recently conducted an analysis of the impact of HUD policies on low-income African -Americans

Camille Zubrinsky Charles is Assistant Professor of Sociology and Faculty Associate Director of the Center for Africana Studies at the University of Pennsylvania. She is a Research Associate in the Population Studies Center at the University of Pennsylvania and part of the National Advisory Group for the Three-City Study of Moving to Opportunity based at Harvard University and the Urban Institute.

Stephanie DeLuca, Ph.D. is Assistant Professor of Sociology at the Johns Hopkins University, where she specializes in the study of residential mobility, neighborhood effects, adolescence, the sociology of education and public policy.

Gerald R. Webster is Professor of Geography at the University of Alabama (1990 to present), where he has served as department chair since 2001. He specializes in political geography, planning and urban geography.

Professor john a. powell, is an internationally recognized authority in the areas of civil rights, civil liberties, and issues relating to race, ethnicity, poverty and the law. He is the executive director of the Kirwan Institute for the Study of Race and Ethnicity at Ohio State University. He also holds the Williams Chair in Civil Rights and Civil Liberties at the Moritz College of Law.

Defendant HUD's Experts

William A.V. Clark is Professor of Geography at the University of California, Los Angeles. A geographer and demographer, he has published widely on the issues of housing choice, residential separation and the distribution of housing in cities.

Robert Fishman, Ph.D. is a scholar and teacher of urban history and the history of city planning, and is currently a professor at the Taubman College of Architecture and Planning at the University of Michigan.

Edgar Olsen, Ph.D. is Professor of Economics at the University of Virginia (1970 to present) and was chair of the department (1993-96). His research specialty is low-income housing policy. He has been an economist at the Rand Corporation and, during the Nixon Administration, was an analyst on the task force that led to HUD's Section 8 Housing Certificate Program.

Joseph Riley has worked at HUD since 1972, and since 2001 has been the Director of the Economic & Market Analysis Division.

Mark D. Shroder is currently HUD Associate Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy Development, Office of Policy Development and Research. Before that he was an economist in HUD's Office of Policy Development and Research (1991-2004).

William M. Rohe, Ph.D. is a Professor at University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and holds the Cary C. Boshamer Distinguished Professor of City and Regional Planning. He specializes in affordable housing and neighborhood revitalization.

Peter H. Schuck is the Simeon E. Baldwin Professor at Yale Law School. From 1977-79, he was the Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation at HUD. Between those appointments he was a Visiting Scholar at the American Enterprise Institute.